Current Comment

The illustrious "Prince" Alexis Mdivani (you pronounce it) and his bride, the former Barbara Hutton, heiress, are having difficulty in getting away on their scheduled honeymoon trip to Japan, due to the fact that the prince has been kept extremely busy the past few days dodging a California process server. Said process server seeks to summon Mdivani as a witness in the trial of his brothers, David and Serge, who are charged with grand theft in Los Angeles. It's all oke now, however, because Alex and Barbara have hit upon the plan of sailing on different boats, she from San Francisco, and he from Seattle, where he is now hiding from the process server.

Inquiring reporters, attempting to find out what causes the royal heart to grow fonder, asked Mdivani what attracted him to the heiress. Replied the doughty prince, "She is very beautiful; she is very natural; she is very sincere."

I don't suppose for a moment that he gave a thought to the vast fortune possessed by his bride.

Another thing I've never been able to figure out is why American girls, usually such nice, clean looking creatures, are continually falling for one or another of the Mdivani brothers or others of the same ilk. They're all homely as sin, poor dressers, according to American standards, and they all look a bit soiled about the collar.

Maurice Chevalier, risque French film star, has announced that he will enter no more long-time contracts with producers. Under long-term contracts, he said, he had been forced to appear in several pictures in which he was "not quite happy." Personally, I could be very happy doing almost anything for the salary that Chevalier is reputed to receive. Surprising how petulant these movie people become when success moves in and has a litter of pups under the kitchen sink.

Airplane interests in this country have embarked on a period of research and experiment which they hope will result in their ability to produce a "flivver" plane for the "man on the street" at about $700 a copy. Success, should it crown their efforts, will be a tremendous asset to business generally, particularly those branches served by the surgeon and the mortician.

Faintly reminiscent of some of our more important "senate investigations" is yesterday's New York Athletic commission hearing of the charge that wrestling in that fair city is not strictly on the up and up.

Following the hearing of testimony the astute gentlemen of the commission retired after issuing the following statement:

"We have heard all the testimony. We have sent it out to be translated into English. When that is done we will consider it. We will then announce our decision. The decision will be that there will be no decision. Meeting adjourned."

A sad commentary on the honesty of public officials and their universal playmates, the building contractors, is reflected in reports from various communities—Los Angeles particularly—which place many school buildings in the category of earthquake menaces. Students in some localities are even pursuing their work in tents because of the unsound condition of school houses. I can't understand a greed for money that overshadows the value of children's lives, and yet that greed and selfishness

CITIZENS URGED TO ATTEND C. C. MEET TUESDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Campbell chamber of commerce is scheduled for Tuesday night, Jan. 16, 8 o'clock at Community hall.

Officials of the group are particularly anxious to have a representative gathering on this occasion, as plans must be gotten under way for Old Settlers' day celebration Feb. 22.

The small attendance which has so far marked winter meetings of the chamber are ineffectual to act, according to H. M. Shadle, president of the organization, who urges all public-spirited citizens to be at this meeting without fail. "Lacking the proper cooperation," he said, "there exists in my mind a doubt as to the advisability of going ahead with plans for the annual Old Settlers' day celebration and observance of Washington's birthday."

WILL ORGANIZE SCOUT-PARENT GROUP ON WED.

Scout activities in Campbell for 1934 will be launched Wednesday evening, Jan. 17, with a 6:30 supper at the Congregational church, where scouts, cub scouts, and their parents will be in attendance. Food for the feast will be brought by each family, and if you don't know what to bring, call Mrs. S. N. Hedegard, Campbell 80, for information. This intelligence was issued today by the Rev. J. H. Bennett, scoutmaster.

A brief program will be presented by the boys, and a Scout-Parent organization will be formed for the purpose of enlisting parental aid in future scout activities.

Campbell Baseball Team In Top Spot, Inter-City League

By Hal DeFraga

Campbell triumphed over Los Gatos for the third time in the Inter-City league's schedule, and for the third time the margin of victory was one run. The score for this game was 3-2. Campbell won the two previous games by 8-7 scores.

"Spec" Clark pitched for Campbell and allowed Los Gatos four singles, three of them of the "scratch" variety. Grey hit a line drive single in the fifth inning after Clark had walked the bases full to score the two runs for Los Gatos. Clark struck out eight men.

Jerry pitched effective ball for the visitors, allowing Campbell but four hits. Bishop celebrated his return to the Campbell line-up by securing two singles and a home run to knock in all of Campbell's runs. His homer came in the last half of the ninth with a runner on third, two men gone, and Campbell trailing 1 to 2.

Both pitchers were wild Sunday, as Jerry gave 6 free passes to first base and Clark donated the same number to Los Gatos

In other games of the Inter-City league, Centerville trimmed Napredaks 14-8 and Richmond-Chase beat San Martin 7 to 3. This leaves Campbell out in front with no defeats. The standing to date:

1 Campbell	3	0	1000
2 Napredaks	2	1	667
3 Richmond-Chase	2	1	667
4 Centerville	2	1	667
5 San Martin	0	3	000
6 Los Gatos	0	3	000

Next Sunday the Napredak club comes to Campbell, and the local boys will be out to keep their record clean. As both teams have a good following, a large crowd will be on hand.

Appeal for Patronage Of Party Issued by PTA

"You can assist a worthy cause by attending the grammar school P. T. A. card party this Friday evening at the grammar school," is the message from Mrs. C. E. Williams, P. T. A. president, to the people of the Campbell community.

Asked by a representative of the Press what the proceeds of the party are to be used for, Mrs. Williams, in behalf of the very efficient parent-teacher organization at the local grammar school, issued the following statement:

"Although the number of lunches served to needy children in the school is gradually decreasing, there is still opportunity to help hungry children. Many of the children who are now being served free meals come from broken homes in which either the mother or father is missing.

"At present 12 children are receiving full lunches and seven children receive a hot dish to supplement their meals each day. Last year 20 children received free lunches each day and in 1932 40 children were provided with the special lunches. In addition to this work 35 children receive free milk, or orange juice, or malted chocolate in the morning. All of this work is sponsored by the P. T. A. and the Campbell Relief society.

"In most cases the child receiving help is more than ten per cent underweight or has a physical handicap, and suggestions for extra feeding has come from a doctor. These children in turn, are required to take a rest period. Our school "health room" contains ten cots supplied with heavy wool blankets. All windows are open so that the children get the benefit of fresh air and at the same time are spared the physical strain of out-door play. This rest period is supervised by the school nurse. The school makes a special effort to cooperate with the county hospital staff inasmuch as that organization is a part of the Campbell school district.

"A marked increase in weight has been made in each child receiving this boost from our P.T.A., relief society and those who have so loyally given to our cause. Our community's present and future health depends upon the health of our children .

"The total proceeds of the forthcoming card party will be spent in carrying out this work of aiding needy children."

More Spreader Dams for Creek Result of W. C. District Efforts

Activities of the Santa Clara County Water Conservation district in the Campbell community this week feature an agreement entered into with K. F. Fuch, local rancher, by which he gives the district permission to erect spreader dams on the part of his land which lies in Los Gatos creek. Mr. Fuch owns 18 acres just south of town, part of his property extending through the creek bed for about a quarter of a mile.

Opposite the south end of the Fuch land is a parcel belonging to the county, and Supervisor Joe McKinnon has granted the district permission to end a spreading dam there. This will enable the district to build possibly two spreading dams between the north and south boundaries of the Fuch land, according to information secured by the Press from Leroy Anderson, secretary of the water conservation district, who completed the deal.

Commenting on the proposed dams, Mr. Anderson said, "These spreading dams are low structures made of steel and rock, and only high enough to level the stream's flow over the entire width of the creek.

"The district engineer will make a survey at once to determine the location of the dams, and it is expected they will be erected by C. W. A. labor, since this is one of the projects approved by the administration for the vast army of workers under its command."

L. L. MERRILL, R. B. HUMMELL REPLACE GRANGE OFFICERS

Orchard City grange held a harvest feast at I. O. O. F. hall last night. A good crowd attended, and visitors included members of Mt. View, Almaden, and Mt. Pleasant granges. Lloyd Gardner was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Following the feast three candidates, Mrs. Werner Raab and Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Knopf, were given the third and fourth degrees by the drill team.

Mark Purmort, overseer, and E. K. Clendening, treasurer, resigned their positions. A ballot resulted in the election of L. L. Merrill as overseer, and R. B. Hummell, treasurer, to take their places.

The yearly report of the treasurer was read at this time.

L. E. Hendricks, master, presided over the business meeting, and announced that officers for the ensuing year will be installed at Palo Alto by Pomona grange next Saturday, Jan. 13. A dinner will also be served by that grange.

INFORMAL FORUM MARKS MONDAY CLUB MEETING

The Country Woman's club enjoyed what was for them a new type of program Monday, a "Forum-Over the Teacups." Mrs. F. B. Peake and Mrs. A. D. Rice were responsible for the interesting and highly sucessful affair, other members of the committee, Mrs. E. I. Price and Mrs. G. W. Page being absent.

The business meeting which preceded the program was conducted by the president, Mrs. H. C. Smith, with the members seated at the small tables at which tea was later served.

In concluding the routine business Mrs. Smith read a little article in the nature of New Year suggestions, "Lessons Worth Learning"—Nuggets and quotations from Hamilton W. Mabie on a similar line.

Mrs. Rice opened the forum, for which the committee had chosen as their subject, "Women — What They Are Doing Today," by giving a short outline of the purposes of the parent-teacher associations in which women carry on the greater part of the activities. Centering all their efforts on child welfare, this earnest, well-organized group of women is a mighty power in this land, with foreign countries, too, now taking up the work.

Mrs. Peake traced the ups and downs of women's place in the world's history, showing their struggle for political and economic recognition, especially in the last century, and the opportunities now before them to help make a better world in which to live.

After an interval of intimate social discussion while the dainty refreshments were served, a number of the ladies added to the interest of the topic by concrete examples of women prominent in various lines.

A cozy homelike atmosphere was created with drawn curtains, lights and candles, and the daintily appointed tea tables, each centered with blooming potted pansies. A beautiful bowl of artistic greens, a gift to Mrs. Peake from Mrs. Warren Shelley's mountain home at Ben Lomond, adorned the library table, and sprays graced the mantle from which tall tapers arose.

Mrs. Weyland Morgan, who has been coaching the play, "Stray Cats," to be presented in the grammar school auditorium Jan. 27, explained the purpose of the high school alumni in giving this play—to make possible the publication of the 1934 annual Oriole.

The next club meeting will be an "Afternoon of Music" on Jan. 22.

Pundita Circle Meets With Mrs. Mitchell

Members of the Pundita Circle enjoyed their regular meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Mitchell on Quito road. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers from the gardens of Mrs. J. J. Pardee and the hostess.

A business meeting was presided over by the club's president, Mrs. D. H. Cramer.

The Boulder dam project was the topic of the program committee, which was headed by Mrs. M. E. Mumma. She and her aide, Mrs. George Smith, Jr., each gave a very interesting and well-prepared paper on the subject.

Refreshments were served during the social hour which followed.

The next meeting of the group will be held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 24, at the Community hall. Mrs. Walter Stray, Mrs. D. H. Cramer, and Mrs. A. C. Anderson will be hostesses on this occasion, a feature of which will be a "sample" lunch.

Speed Marks Trial Of Local Rancher

Some kind of a record was broken Monday when just 15 minutes were required to select a jury for the trial of Servio Sanfilippo, local rancher charged with murdering Manuel T. McCorkle, steam shovel operator, on Hamilton avenue near here July 28, 1933. The first 12 people called were accepted by both sides. They include Mrs. Elizabeth Dyer, Lamson jury alternate; Mrs. Neva Lawler, Howard W. Rank, Alex Anderson, E. E. Carter, Mrs. Lena Osborn, George D. Worswick, Mrs. Alice McDonald, Mrs. Bessie McLean, E. P. Bonar, Mrs. Selena Sepulveda, and Mrs. Edith Muirson.

With Superior Judge William F. James on the bench, proceedings got under way at once. The prosecution, conducted by Earl R. Girvin and Deputy District Attorney John Fitzgerald, called seven witnesses to testify to circumstances alleged to surround the shooting.

First called was the widow of the slain man, Mrs. Eddie McCorkle, who testified to the physical appearance of her late husband. E. C. Finlay, who was with McCorkle shortly before he was killed, testified that they had had a few drinks, but denied on cross examination that he had told Sheriff Emig and several of his deputies that McCorkle was drunk.

Dr. D. B. Draper and Madeline Luehessa, head nurse at O'Connor's, told the nature of the wound responsible for McCorkle's death, and circumstances before and after the shooting were described by Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nave, Mrs. Maude Foster, and her son "Buddy."

Nave said that he slowed his car when he observed a man get out of another machine into the road. He could not state definitely the distance that separated his car from the spot where the man collapsed on the highway. Nave said he saw a man going toward the one lying on the road, and that he also saw a third man running toward the scene from a nearby orchard. McCorkle, Nave said, was on his back, his head near a pool of blood, and a pistol lying near him.

"Buddy" Foster, 15-year-old student, testified that he saw a man standing near the left-hand side of one of the two cars, and that he heard a shot and saw the man fall. The car ahead, he said, was moving.

Additional witnesses called by the prosecution yesterday gave testimony which hinted at an auto crash as the prime mover in the McCorkle killing, instead of an attempted holdup as claimed by the defendant.

Kenneth Helvey, San Jose high school youth, told the court that he was in the yard of the nearby Radford home when he heard the crash of breaking glass, closely followed by a shot and a woman's scream. He ran to the road, he said, where he found a man lying on the pavement, wounded in the neck, and bleeding profusely. Another man holding a gun was standing over him. The wounded man was McCorkle, and the man with the gun was identified in court as Sanfilippo.

Sheriff William Emig testified that when Sanfilippo surrendered to him the morning following the shooting he said that the windshield of his car was broken before the shot was fired, but he couldn't explain how it got broken.

Defense witnesses were expected to complete their testimony today, and final arguments of prosecution and defense will be an early feature of the trial, it is believed.

The George Page orchard was sprayed in record time Monday when a fast, low-flying airplane accomplished several days work in as many hours.

MOUNTAIN VIEW DEFEATED FRIDAY BY LOCAL QUINT

Friday night was a disastrous time for the unlimited and 130-pound basketball teams of Mt. View, for on that evening squads from Campbell high school took the Mountaineers into camp 30-12 in the light class, while the unlimiteds won 31-19 for Orchard City.

That Coach Noddin gave his entire 130-pound squad an opportunity to participate in the victory is revealed in the following box-score:

The main event was marked, as usual, by the phenomenal playing of "Red" Cook, altitudinous center, who accounted for 24 of the total 31 points. By comparison, using the box-score as a measuring stick, other players on the Campbell team appear to be a bit inactive. Such, however, is not the case. Every one of the boys puts up a good show, comparing favorably with the average high school athlete.

is the time to prevent rickets

EXPECTANT mother, what if your child should develop rickets (softening of the bones) — that dread affliction of early childhood which so often leads to deformities?

Usually it is due to malnutrition — during pregnancy as well as after birth. Guard against it before baby arrives. You can take nothing finer than Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. Its abundance of precious vitamin D helps to build strong bones and, later, sound teeth.

And of vitamin A one tablespoonful of Scott's Emulsion contains more than does a whole quart of milk. Just what mother and child both need for health to ward off "colds" and the many more serious complications that so often follow!

Scott's Emulsion is trustworthy, pure, efficacious. Sixty years on the market —and better today than ever. All druggists — 60c and $1.20.

"John, we may have a bigger gas bill this month. The heat has been on all day."
"Probably so, but any kind of heating costs more in January. Most of our gas bills have been low."

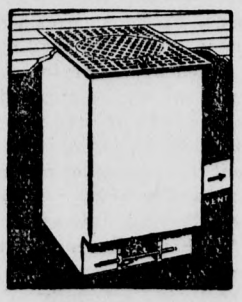
Natural Gas

Naturally THE BETTER FUEL

LIVING COSTS in January are higher than in any other month of the year. More lighting is needed. More heating is needed. It is the peak month for low temperatures and high living costs.

Fortunately, since Natural Gas Heating has become so popular, one item of winter expense has been greatly cut down. With Natural Gas Heating, which maintains inside temperature at the comfort level of just above seventy degrees, the cost of keeping well has been reduced.

Install gas heating equipment this month when you need adequate and abundant heat the most. Four to ten times as much heat is needed in January when more hours each day and more days during the month are chilly than in September. Low first payment and budget terms make gas heating appliances easy to own and enjoy.



Circulating Heater

Attractive, low in first cost and highly efficient. It heats two to four rooms. Made in many sizes and styles. Extremely economical to operate.

Floor Furnace

Solves the heating problem for homes without a basement. Highly praised by thousands. Saves floor space and is easy and most economical to install and operate.

THE STORY OF CALIFORNIA SCHOOLS

By ROY W. CLOUD

State Executive Secretary California Teachers Association

Editor's Note: The story of California's public schools is an integral part of the story of California. Threaded through the annals of the state, decade by decade, from the historic constitutional convention of 1849 at Colton's hall, Monterey, until today the story of our schools is a remarkable and major strand in the fabric of our record as a commonwealth. Clear visioned, sturdy pioneers of American democracy here in the west battled heroically in that first convention for a sound and permanent foundation for a free public school system. The Robert Semple of that day—great dadvocate of education—was succeeded by the Swetts, the Langes and the Stanfords of another day; each bearing on high and ever forward the guidon of educational preeminence for California. It is a story too little known, because it never has been told in its entirety. It will not be told for the first time, in brief and narrative form, in these columns.

The Constitutional Convention

(Part Two)

A long step had been taken from the Royalist Virginia governor's day when fighters for public education, like Robert Semple, president of the convention and former publisher of the Californian, California's first newspaper, could take the floor in the constitutional convention of 1849 to bluntly demand whether "any gentleman here will pretend to say that there has ever been too large a fund collected in any state for the purpose of education?"

Or when farmer-delegate M. M. McCarver of Sacramento could say: "—as to the propriety of collecting together for the state of California a large fund for educational purposes, I never expect to live to see the time when that fund will be too large."

Or when Francis J. Lippitt, lawyer-delegate from San Francisco, could say:

"The very fact that California offers such a munificent fund for education will be an inducement to a most valuable class of population to come here—families with children. The inducement will be still stronger when it is known that, by the provisions of the constitution, the legislature cannot encroach upon the fund set apart for educational purposes."

Or when Thomas L. Vermuele, lawyer-delegate from Stockton, could end his debate with this ringing and prophetic sentiment:

"I am proud, sir, to be a member of this body when I see the general disposition to stamp upon the constitution of California the feature which will make it a mark for the admiration of the civilized world, and provide the means of education for the present and for generations yet to come."

These men were not impractical theorists. They had witnessed the tide of lawlessness which had swept over the new state. They had seen the children of this frontier land growing up in ignorance. They believed that the only hope for the future lay through universal education, and this belief led them to declare emphatically for the public school.

Above all things, too, they were patriots—proud of their American republic. At that time a large percentage of the citizen body of the nation was illiterate. Leaders in movements for social improvement over the entire country were already recognizing that democratic principles could not long survive the prevailing malpractices made possible because of the general lack of education on the part of the great masses of the citizens. These early California patriots had the breadth of vision to comprehend the importance of public education as a means of realizing their dreams not only of a greater California, but of a great American nation.

For days the debate swung its oratorical pendulum, with victory finally resting with Semple by the narrow margin of one vote in the convention sitting as a committee of the whole: 18 to 17. The committee's recommendation, after further prolonged debate, was finally approved by the convention.

"And so," remarks John Swett, impressively, in his California School History, "was laid the foundation of our school fund and our school system."

And so likewise, our pioneer fathers of education wrought mightily for us in those troubled days of California's gray dawn.

Through the work of Robert Semple and his associates, the beginnings of California's school system were made in the Monterey convention. But nearly two decades were to pass before a state system of free schools was actually established.

Discussion of Charter Set for Sunday Night

Next Sunday evening, H. G. Mitchell, the first of two speakers on the new county charter, will address a meeting at the Congregational church. Mr. Mitchell, chairman of the freeholders' committee whose responsibility it was to draw up the charter, will explain the proposed entente.

These meetings, according to the Rev. J. H. Bennett, pastor of the church, are called together merely for the purpose of acquainting the townspeople with the details of the charter.

On Sunday, Feb. 21, a speaker will present the other side of the question. To date he has not been chosen. Extreme care will be taken to secure a speaker who will deal fairly with the criticism.

The meetings are to begin promptly at 7:45. Mr. Bennett will preside.

Unfortunate indeed is the customer who cannot make his wants known at Court's, for mine host, besides English, speaks German, Italian, Russian, Polish, French, and the dialects of six of the Balkan states.

At this resort, convenient to Campbell, you are assured of a warm welcome. Here one may dine or lunch, dance, secure good beer, and stay as long or as briefly as you choose.

Order prevails at the local roadside inn, and rowdyism is not tolerated. "The atmosphere is such that a man need not hesitate to bring his family here," affirmed the proprietor.

is present on every hand.

A parallel may be drawn from an instance in which selfishness struck close to home: The division superintendent of a middlewestern railroad had been asked to install gates at the principal crossing in his home town, and he had repeatedly refused to requisition them on the grounds that it would imperil his record of economy. He was riding the cab of an engine when it ran over and killed his own wife and daughter at the crossing he had refused to protect with gates.

IT HAS been frequently said, "Anyone can be a fancy cook, but it takes a good cook to be a plain cook." Nowhere is this homely saying more true than in using left-overs. She richly deserves her reputation as a good cook and good manager, whose magic touch transforms into interesting, appetizing dinner dishes wee bits and dabs of food tucked away in the refrigerator after a previous meal. Often unnecessary is the good advice not to use too many expensive items to save a small amount of food. Skill in combining and seasoning determines the success of dishes from left-overs. Here are several suggestions for converting remnants of yesterday's roast into dishes that will please your family immensely. They will give you the satisfaction of knowing you are being extremely thrifty, and they will be ready to serve in thirty minutes or less.

Cold Sliced Left-Over Meat With Quick Barbecue Sauce

Slice cold meat and place it in a frying pan with a small amount of butter; brown very slightly, then pour over it a sauce made by combining the following:

¼ cup Tomato Ketchup
½ cup water
1 tablespoon Pure Vinegar
2 teaspoons flour
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard

Simmer the meat slowly with this sauce, or place it in a moderate oven for about ½ hour. The meat which tended to be a bit dry will be moist and flavorful and delicious. (Serve with baked potatoes and a green salad to have a grand quick dinner.)

Pork Roast Casserole

1 large onion
½ green pepper
3 tablespoons Pure Cider Vinegar
½ cup Cream of Tomato Soup
½ cup broth (pork, chicken, veal or beef)
Slices or cubes of left-over pork
Buttered bread crumbs or Rice Flakes

Chop onion and pepper finely, add Vinegar and cook until Vinegar evaporates. Pour in Soup and broth and cook slowly for half an hour. Place slices or cubes of pork in a casserole and cover with above sauce. Sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs or Rice Flakes and heat in a hot oven for about 15 minutes, until crumbs are brown and meat has become thoroughly heated through.

Mushroom and Rice Casserole

2 cups cooked rice
2 cups diced cooked left-over meat
½ can Cream of Mushroom Soup

Mix rice and meat and put in buttered casserole. Pour Soup over the top and bake for 30 minutes in a hot oven (400° F.). When about done, sprinkle with cheese or top with buttered crumbs or Rice Flakes. Let cheese melt or crumbs brown, and serve hot.

Mexican Spaghetti

1 cup (or more) diced cooked ham
1 medium size green pepper
1 medium size onion
1 21-oz. can Cooked Spaghetti
Fresh Cucumber Pickles

Brown chopped ham, green pepper and onion in butter. Place in one side of frying pan, add Spaghetti and allow to heat thoroughly. Place Spaghetti on platter, surround with a border of Pickles, then with the browned meat. Add sprigs of parsley to garnish.

Left-Over Meat With Vegetables

2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat
2 cups diced left-over meat
2 tablespoons flour
1 can Vegetable Soup (medium size)

Brown meat in hot fat. Add flour and brown slightly. Pour in Soup and stir until it thickens. Serve on toast or with hot biscuits.

KIWANIS NOTES By Heck

"Speeding Up the Criminal Courts" was the subject of the address by Attorney Sam Tompkins before a full house at Kiwanis luncheon yesterday.

Mr. Tompkins is sponsor of a petition for some much-needed changes in the criminal procedure laws of this state, and gave an interesting talk on the necessity of such changes.

He said in part that this country shows a great contrast in its remarkable development in educational, humanitarian, and other lines, while the crime wave increases here faster than in other countries.

Mr. Tompkins declared that the speeding up of trials and justice would be the greatest deterrent to crime, and stated that speedy punishment is the surest preventative of crime.

The speaker believes that the principal points of the petition cover the changes most needed to carry out the desired improvement. They are: life tenure of judges; a verdict of 10-12 to convict; examination of the defendant on the stand, and permitting the judge to present the evidence to the jury in an unbiased, unemotional manner.

President Guy Farley stated that this enlightening talk was in line with one of the main objectives of kiwanis. Dean Whitman was chairman.

P. G. Sheehy will speak next week on "The Income Tax. What Is It?" Dr. Weyland Morgan will be chairman.
